Gold, Frankincense & Myrrh

Return Of

The Christian Inheritance

J. Hart

2,000 years ago a profound miracle occurred. A child King was born unto the world whose birth was promised by the ancient mystics of old (Isaiah 7:14). This child would be an extraordinary child; the seed of God made manifest on earth into the womb of a mortal woman, a virgin who would miraculously conceive this child who was destined to be the messiah and savior of the world.

In the sky a sign appeared. An unusual and bright star that would begin the quest and journey of leading three magi, Three wise men, three mystic kings to the place of the birth of the child king at the exact time of his birth being between the late night and the early morning.

Upon arriving and witnessing the fulfillment of the prophecy of the child King (Matthew 1:23) the three Magi keeled before the infant king and extended out their arms holding three gifts one gave Gold, the second gave Frankincense and the third gave Myrrh (Matthew 2:11).

And so it was that the infant would in time grow to a man and he would perform great and amazing miracles and he would teach great and profound things yet above all he would achieve a tremendous feat for all of humanity! He would selflessly lay down his life to save the current and future generations of the world just as the prophecy of the mystics of old had prophesied in (Isaiah 8:8).

And we his followers who loved him would keep and share his memory and lessons and pass them on through oral history generation after generation.

In time a very vital and significant part of the story his life would vanish from his-story as those who maintained the memories of his life themselves would in time slowly begin to pass away and in a matter of a single generation many of the mysteries once attributed to his-story would vanish and become lost to the world.

Among the most significant missing pieces would be the very dates of his birth and crucifixion. And so for 2,000 years these missing dates have caused tremendous confusion and have even been responsible for the seeds of doubt put fourth by those who would try to deny the very events of his birth and crucifixion.

So shameful was the very notion that his dates would be absent from his-story that over the centuries countless historians, scholars, theologians, holy men and women and mystics have sought to restore them with no success until something miraculous occurred.

But the question is, what would it mean for Christians, Christianity and Christendom itself if these long missing pieces of his-story was restored and returned to the memory and minds of the world?

The very magnitude of such an event would shake the very foundations of the world and perhaps even ignite a new era of faith as people in families would begin to talk which would quickly spread throughout the world uniting and empowering people of faith.

But what if I told you that such a thing has occurred and the answer amazingly comes in the form of a story in the form of oral history passed down from generation to generation for 70 generations.

Long ago a young man received an unexpected inheritance. A package from his biological father, a father he had never known nor ever seen his entire life. In this package was a drawstring pouch with three stones in it and a small hand written book and a letter.

The letter explained to the young man that his father had passed away and it was being sent as part of a sworn promise by the son of his father's closest friend and so his receiving of this package was the will and last testament of his father.

The hand written book contained a story which read as follows: You are now the entrusted guardian of this ancient mystery; a mystery that has been passed down for generations from elder to youth. Herein resides the sacred mystery of the three Magi and the key to unlock the date of the birth of our Lord & Savior Emmanuel Jesus.

Take these three stones and place them in front of you so that the stones are touching one another. Next, by moving one stone slightly away from the other you will notice that this will produce only two possible numerical conclusions which in proper numerical order is (1)-one stone then (2)-two stones or (2)-two stones and (1)-one stone.

This produces a numerical combination code which reads as 1-2-2-1. This is the month and the day in which our Lord and Savior Emmanuel Jesus was born being December 21st and not December 25th which is a roman pagan feast day celebrating Mithris which should have never been attributed to the date of the birth of Emmanuel Jesus.

This encoded message is not something that will ever change with time but rather the only thing that has or may ever change is our ability to acknowledge and understand it.

In other words this code is infinite and was created by and is originally from God the father and the confirmation of this resides within the simple decoding of 1221 into it's alphabetical equivalents which is "ABBA" which is Aramaic the language of Jesus and means father.

Below here you are shown a graph explanation of the breakdown of the combination of three/3/111 and how it is actually decoded in simplified form.

The three 3 Magi also represents the number three as well as the third planet from the sun which is our home the Earth itself. This is the solution to the mystery of the origin of the word Earth itself as when you say either the word three or the number 3 in reverse, the word you hear is the phonic representation of the word Earth.

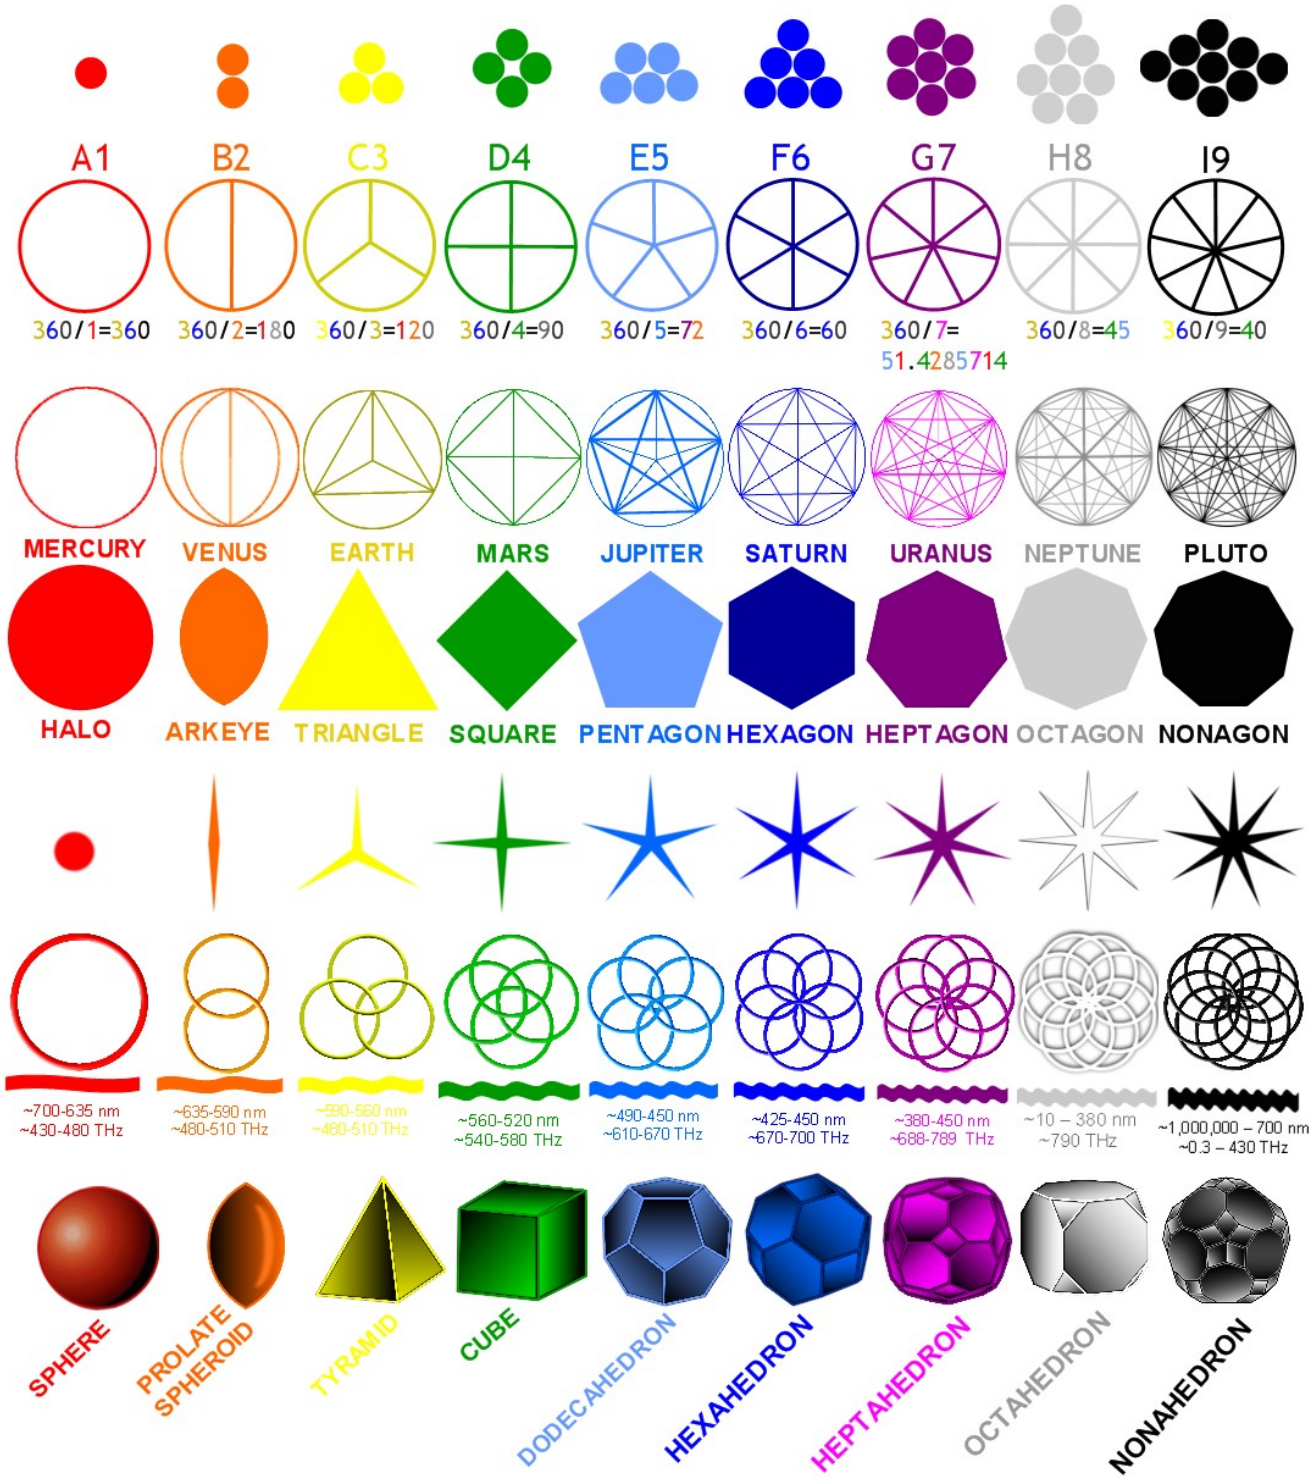
The oldest known and most ancient absolute symbol for the earth is the triangle shape as it is the third shape in the absolute universal sequence of shapes. Below here is a redeveloped example of that sequence.

This sequence encompasses what some have referred to as Sacred Geometry and is the true Sacred Geometry which quite simply is the oldest branch of mathematics that exists and is universal and was part of the knowledge once held in the library of Alexandra.

This chart also unlocks and gives explanation to most every ancient mystery that exists as it is what the ancients knew and used. For example when you combine the first three shapes together the symbol you will see is what some refer to as the all seeing eye but is simply an ancient star chart symbol designating the location of the earth within our own solar system as the third planet from our sun Earth.

Universial Sacred Sequential Geometry



The 9 Neo-Platonic Solids/Harmonic Polyhedra

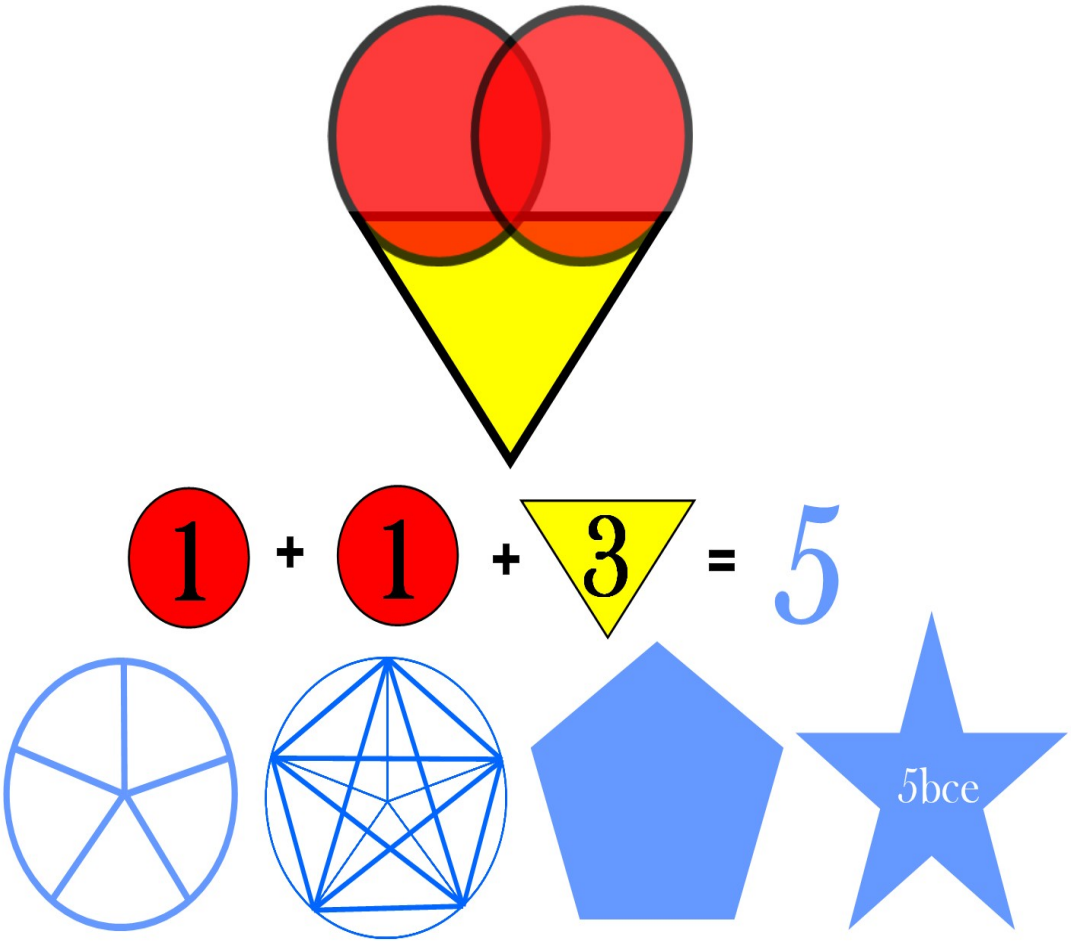
The word Earth itself also contains a further mystery which confirms the dates and speaks of the birth of our Lord and Savior and it is unlocked when the word EARTH is written three times together with no spaces in between them and in a circular way as follows: HEARTHEARTHEARTH. This produces a very limited set of words which in turn produces a limited set of possible sentences which are shown in the below image:

hearthearthearthe

The Hearth is the protective stone barrier around a fireplace which keeps a family's home safe from the fire which they have always used either to warm themselves or to cook, bake bathe and even sterilize the water to drink or to clean wounds.

The mystery also shows us that the words Earth and Heart are in fact synonymous. The origin of the heart symbol comes from two circles merged with one triangle.

A circle in the universal absolute sequence of shapes equals 1 and a triangle represents 3. And so since there are two circles and one triangle the symbol of the heart represents 5 which also represents the shape known as the pentagon and the five pointed star all of which are simply derived from the logical mathematical/geometrical conclusion of dividing a circle into five equal parts.



And so the symbol of the heart equates to the number 5 and also the five pointed star which represents the year in which our Lord and Savior Emmanuel Jesus was born 5bce.

This is why we as Christians created the tradition of placing the 5 pointed star atop the Christ-mas tree as it represents the year in which our Lord and Savior was born and the tree represents three and the mystery of the three Magi and the gifts beneath the tree represent the gift from and of the Heart of God which God did give to the world.

There are numerous such mysteries encoded within Christian stories as well as the symbols which Christians initially adopted and made as a tradition to preserve certain and specific truths with very significant meaning which are linked one to another which makes up the richness of Christian traditions.

While many of the explanations of these traditions have been forgotten and presumed lost forever, they are in fact returning and being restored with very detailed explanation.

Another such mystery encompasses why people began the tradition of using the hanging stockings on the fireplace during the Christmas Season.

As I explained, the mystery of the words Earth and Heart produce the message of the arrival of the birth of Emmanuel Jesus and they also explain that he is the hearth for family the stone barrier which

The fireplace of course represents the hearth and the stockings themselves represent the letter ‘J’ for Jesus.

For some confusion will certainly arise within the minds of some inspiring many questions such as how is this possible when these are English words?

The answer is simple; much of history is a lie which has been omitted, hidden away and revised by those who have sought to use it as a weapon to control, enslave and even exterminate entire populations throughout history just as the evil King Harrods had done at the time of the birth of our Lord and Savior Emmanuel Jesus when Herod sent out his assassins to murder every new born infant as his hopeful solution to kill Emmanuel Jesus yet he failed!

Despite what any supposed scholars have or may ever attempt to claim the English language is not a recent language in the actual history of humanity but is the most ancient language yet was a once dead and revived language which was derived from the most ancient alphabet that exists which also was a part of the ancient knowledge of the library of Alexandria.

The alphabet we use today is an artistic version and/or representation of its ancient counterpart. Every letter in fact was created by squaring a circle and dividing it into nine parts whereby those parts are then combined in various way to create every letter and number symbol of the that exists.

There will also many who will go above and beyond as an attempts to refute the true dates of our Lord and Savior and this is to be expected as this is what evil does and has always done.

They will claim that it is not “scriptural” and must therefore be discounted and ignored but at this they will also fail because in fact the dates of our Lord and Savior Emmanuel Jesus are also preserved within the scriptures themselves!

The Christian inheritance is immense and continues forth within another restored mystery known as the mystery of the 3 passages three of course being a direct link in reference to as well as a confirmation to the mystery of the Three Wise men and what is revealed there.

As you may have noticed I refer to our Lord and Savior as Emmanuel Jesus. I do so because I acknowledge Emmanuel as the original name which was given to Jesus by God.

This name is written only three times within the whole of the scriptures. However it was written (2)x two times in the old testament as Immanuel and (1)x one time in the New Testament.

It is written first in the passage of Isaiah 7:14 which is the passage of the prophetic foretelling of his birth which reads as follows: Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel.

This passage is nearly identical to the passage of the fulfillment of the prophecy which is in the new testament in Matthew 1:23 which reads as follows: Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us.

There is a definitive revelation preserved between these two passages which has everything to do with the sign the Lord himself gives us in Isaiah 7:14 and the last three words of Matthew 1:23 “God with us” which will be fully explained.

The passage of Isaiah 8:8 is the prophetic passage which foretold of his future crucifixion which is what is meant by the stretching out f his wings: And he shall pass through Judah; he shall overflow and go over, he shall reach even to the neck; and the stretching out of his wings shall fill the breadth of thy land, O Immanuel.

The variance of the two spelling of his name Immanuel & Emmanuel was intentional and obviously for the specific purpose of pointing out those differences which asks those who have the eyes to see or otherwise the attentiveness to detail to take notice to said differences and to contemplate and explore them more closely.

The passage of Isaiah 7:14 first draws our attention to an interesting thought a “sign”. Were we find that when we take the word (SIGN) itself and convert the letters of the word “sign” to their numerical equivalents:

S(18), I(9), G(7), N(14)=189714 this produces a specific number in which exists the same number as that of the number of the passage itself whereby we can then easily conclude that we are being asked to explore and contemplate the meaning of the number 714 itself.

Through contemplation and the study of the chart of the Sacred Sequential Geometry you will find the existence, origin and significance this number.

What this sequence simply reveals is that the number 714 is equal to the seventh letter which is G, followed by the 1st Shape which is the circle and finally the 4th letter which is D.

This in essence shows to us the actual origin of the word GOD and has everything to do with the literal meaning of passage of John 1:1 which states that in the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.

In other words, there is only one God and because this is so; God's name is therefore

GOD and the number of his name is 714 while I should also point out that what we think is a word is actually the creators original name and that name does consist of three numbers as well as 1 symbol/shape and 2 letters or 2 letters and 1 symbol/shape which also produces the 1221/Abba/father message as well.

I am to this very day continuously amazed by all that God has revealed because I understand that only God could have ever encoded such tremendously intricate and detailed absolutes in such magnificent and astonishing ways. At times it may be difficult for some to even comprehend the magnitude of what all this means for humanity itself as God has made himself manifest and is saying to the world, I am real!, I am here!, I am with you!, This is who I am!, Here is my are my fingerprints!

It is difficult to imagine how long the world has existed and how many have passed without gaining this their inheritance. When we step back and think of how absolutely remarkable it is for just the name God itself to finally reveal it's own infinite origins is beyond what most can even fathom as you will come to witness and learn in what other significantly profound places and ways that the word God exists.

I must however digress to focus upon the encoded meaning of the numbers 8:8 of Isaiah 8:8. What we are being shown here is another kind of numerical riddle that says what you see is not one eight but 2-8s which represents the number 28.

Finally, we come to the passage of Matthew 1:23 which again contains another encoded number riddle as 1 represents the 1st century, then two and three which are equal to the letters BC and are also added 23=2(B) +3(C)=5=(E) which equals five and 5 is equal to the 5th letter which is E thus the messages is The first century 5bce (Before the common era). In other words this was the year in which Emmanuel Jesus was born.

To be clear some would call this decoding method gematria and while it is evident that it is at least in part gematria; the entire body of encoding s contain a variety of methods. In addition, I am aware that some and likely individuals who are jealous and have malicious intentions might also attempt to claim that only the Hebrew alphabet can be decoded this way which is completely false as God is not restricted by neither the made up rules of men nor is he restricted by space or time; nor is he restricted as to where, how, what or even why he chooses to encode and only he chooses when and to who he reveals certain things.

I should also point out that there is a huge difference between what God reveals and what those not of God claim to reveal. I feel it my obligation to warn everyone that if something cannot be easily checked without a great deal of complexity and effort and the tools for doing so are withheld then it is evident that there is likely something sinister and/or malicious behind it. Everything that I present here anyone can easily and simply confirm for themselves with little to no effort.

The Restored Dates of Emmanuel Jesus

In Isaiah 7:14 the name Immanuel is broken down into three parts (Im-man-uel). These parts are a message which say, “I am man uel” or “I became man uel”. The last three letters UEL are two things the first being that UEL is a phonic for YULE as in yule tide carols which in simplified terms means the days or dates of Emmanuel Jesus which is then confirmed when we add the simple numerical equivalents to the letters: U(21)=Day, E(5)=Year, (L)21=Month. However, this is a prophetic foretelling and not a fulfillment.

The fulfillment and finality exists within Matthew 1:23 within Emmanuel. In the diagram you are shown the entire decoding which is presented in pure and simplified form. Here you are shown that the letter E(5) is not just equal to the year 5bce but is also equal to the fifth shape as shown in the chart/diagram of Sacred Sequential Geometry. This is also directly linked to the star which the three wise men followed as well as the original 5 pointed star that was originally and traditionally place atop the Christmas tree shown in the diagram of the Christmas tree.

The tree itself represents three and as you already have learned it also represents the Earth as well as the birth year of our Lord and Savior Emmanuel Jesus. The five pointed star atop the tree became an early Christian tradition used to symbolize and preserve the date of his birth.

Next in the diagram of Emmanuel we are shown the meaning of the letters MM. Here we are being told two things: First that he was born during the time and occupation of Rome because MM are Roman numerals. Secondly we are being told when which was 2,000 years ago. What this means is that the revealing of his dates were to occur 2,000 years later which means GOD planned it!

The next part of Emmanuel is the part of the word man. This is very interesting indeed especially because in researching this word I discover that the word man is a very significant word as it exists within a multitude of words including biblical words like commandments and manna. We unlock the purpose of the word man when we break it down into it numerical equivalents and we then calculate those numbers by adding them together where we arrive as the sum 28.

I also found an interesting parallel between the numbers of the word man=13114 and the numbers that make up the word Adam which is in reverse as 14113 which to me was a confirmation that I was on the right track.

If you recall I previously revealed the number 28 through the decoding of Isaiah 8:8. This was another confirmation that told me that 28ad was in fact the year of the crucifixion of our Lord and Savior who according to the years 12/21/5bce to 3/28/28ad he would have been 32 years, 3 months and 7days old at the time.

During the process of creating a one dimensional depiction of the cross, I discovered that it consists of 2-Planks & 8-Points which confirmed to me the date of 28ad. Through closer study and contemplation I concluded that a singular vertical line logically represents 1 and a horizontal line represents 2. I then decided to number and letter the points and sections of the cross and that is where the number of the name of GOD was present in the cross.

I was amazed at what I was looking at as I had never realized that the name GOD was encoded within the cross. I knew there had to be more!

In time GOD revealed more to me that the sum of the numbers of the word cross itself was and is 74: C(3)+R(18)+O(15)+S(19)+(19)=74. Humm I thought to myself what does mean? If GOD is 714 and the calculation of the word Cross is 74 could this number also represent a person I wondered?

And that's when it the thought entered into my mind. Go ahead! I said to myself. No this could not be I thought. And then I did it! I totaled the numbers in the name Jesus and there it was! 74!?? Am I dreaming I wondered?? And then I tried the transliteration of the name Jesus which is Joshua and it was 74! And then I tried the name YSHUA which is also a transliteration of Jesus and again it was 74!??

Wait! But what about the original Greek spelling I wondered which is IESVS? And to my utter shock the sum of it to was 74!!

At that point I was completely overwhelmed with emotion and I thought ok so these are names. What about if I try not a name but a title? And that is when it all began to make sense to me.

You see these are not just names they are extremely special names and in fact next to the name GOD it is the most special name. There is no way and I mean zero chance that all of these very special names would equate to 74 unless they were meant to. And I thought ok then let's try something else. Let's pick out a word that is no a name that we all know absolutely represents Jesus. And that's when I knew because you see there is one word that I felt defined our Lord and Savior and that very special word was and is linked to all four of those variant transliterations his name and that name was and is Messiah!

I am certain that I do not have to tell you what is the sum of the letters of the word and title Messiah because you already know the answer. But what I can tell you is that in numerous ancient manuscripts and paintings of Emmanuel Jesus, he is always depicted with a halo or circle over his head or a circular disk behind his head and since we know that a circle/halo is equal to the number 1 we also know that if we logically added 74 to those images which represent Emmanuel Jesus what we would see is 7 (halo) 4 or if you prefer 7 (circle) 4 which of course means 714.

Now perhaps it all becomes clearer as we remember the meaning of Emmanuel which being translated means, not merely God with us but God among us. Holy Holy! Amazing Grace! He is written in the cross for all time!

GOD

John 1:1

In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.

As if this were all not enough to confirm the reality and existence of GOD our father who art in heaven and our Lord and Savior Emmanuel Jesus there is yet one final and tremendously special revelation. For centuries since the crucifixion of our Lord and Savior the cup which he used at the last supper which was also the cup that is said through oral history to have collected his blood at the time of his crucifixion has never been authenticated.

Mystery of The Holy Grail

Countless knights, explorers, historians and scholars and other noble and great men and women have sought the Holy Grail Cup of Christ for 2,000 years and for Two-thousand years its identity and location have remained a mystery to the world until this very moment in time. You see the Holy Grail as it is today is itself is encoded with the dates of the birth and crucifixion of our Lord and Savior.

But what is so remarkable is that the encoded preservation of the dates of the birth and crucifixion of our Lord and Savior both being in the mysteries and in the Holy Grail means that both simultaneously identify and authenticate one another!

The sheer implications of this may take some time to really sink in and so let us take a closer look at The Holy Grail otherwise known as The Grail of Valencia Cathedral in Spain.

It's a surprisingly modest thing at its core: a deep, reddish-brown agate cup, smooth as river stone, translucent when held against the light, carved sometime in antiquity by a hand that couldn't have imagined the legend it would later carry. The stone itself has a quiet, ancient dignity — the kind of beauty that comes not from ornament but from time.

But then comes the human layer: the medieval goldsmiths who, centuries later, lifted this simple cup and mounted it in a cradle of gleaming gold, rising on a delicate stem, resting upon an inverted agate bowl. They adorned it with 28 pearls and 4 precious stones, turning what might have been a humble vessel into a royal reliquary — a fusion of sacred austerity and medieval opulence.

The contrast is striking: the “cup” is ancient and understated; the “frame” feels like the Middle Ages shouting its devotion in gold.

When you look at it, it doesn’t feel like a prop from legend. It feels like an artifact that has passed through hands — Jewish, Roman, early Christian, medieval European — each era adding a layer of meaning.

There’s an aura of quiet authority. Not flashy. Not theatrical. But it has the same energy as an old sword or an ancient manuscript: an object that has lived history. It’s the kind of relic that draws your eyes not because it’s luxurious, but because it feels improbably intact — as if time itself stepped aside to let it pass through.

The Cup of Christ was mounted atop this Gold and Jewel encrusted frame or a specific reason and purpose which was to preserve the dates of the birth and crucifixion of our Lord and Savior Emmanuel Jesus.

It base is an oval representing an eye that says look here. Upon its base you will see golden bands in the form of the cross. Upon this band there are 4 precious stones: 2 Red Carnelian Stones and 2 Green Emeralds. These 4 being red and green are the colors of Christmas are the colors and 4 itself in simple geometry represents the simple cross, the diamond/square, the nautical star and the color green.

The cup by itself mage from a reddish-brown agate stone is the precious stone. What this means is that there are actually 5 precious stones. These five stones represent the year 5bce.

Around it’s golden cross base which represents the cross of the crucifixion are precisely 28 pearls which represents the year in which Emmanuel Jesus was crucified being 28ad.

Its handles are in the shape of a heart. This is symbolic in several ways: First the human heart begins beating between the 21st and 28th day after conception. This represents the day in which Emmanuel Jesus was born being the 21st day and the 28th day represents both the day and the year in which he was crucified being the 28th Day and the year 28ad.

The heart symbol is linked to the word heart and it also holds a mystery as when we write the word heart in a circular way, it then produces the same message as in the mystery of the 3 wise men. In this case the word Heart is synonymous with the word Earth and as you know when you speak the word Earth in reverse the word you hear is three just as when you speak the word or the number three (3) in reverse the word you hear is Earth the same way that when you mirror the number symbol ʒ it becomes the first letter symbol ɛ of the word Earth. The cup of Christ is reported to be able to hold 7.44oz which is a direct link to The Mystery of His Name & The Cross.

Season of the Lamb

With the dates of Jesus' conception, birth, and death already firmly established, the relationship between his life and the life-cycle of the lamb becomes unmistakably clear. Once we recognize his birth as occurring on December 21st, 5BCE, his conception in late March of 4 BCE, and his death on March 28, 28AD, a precise and consistent pattern emerges —one that mirrors the natural and ritual sequence that defined lambs in the ancient Near East.

Jesus' life begins in the spring, at the same time lambs were conceived. His conception takes place in the season of renewed life, yet it is an event occurring in literal and symbolic darkness. In the cultural and theological vocabulary of the period, conception is always hidden, always concealed, always formed away from view.

Even when it occurs in the brightening days of spring, it belongs to the unseen realm. His life begins exactly where the life of the lamb begins: as an invisible spark of new existence during the season of increasing vitality.

His birth on the winter solstice situates his emergence into the world at the lowest point of the sun's cycle. The solstice is the moment when daylight is shortest, when darkness reaches its yearly peak. From this day forward, light begins its return. Placing his birth at this moment is not symbolic interpretation but chronological fact, and it provides the natural counterpoint to his springtime conception. What began unseen in March appears openly in December at the turning of the year.

The contrast between hidden beginning and solstice birth establishes the same pattern found in the natural world: the seed formed in darkness emerges at the moment when the cycle of light restarts.

As the lamb grows, its first year includes an early offering in the form of shearing. This is not a sacrifice but a contribution—something given while life continues. Jesus' early public actions correspond to this stage exactly. His presence in the Temple as a youth, his early teaching, and his initial demonstrations of authority represent the first giving of himself.

These moments parallel the lamb's first shearing: a sign of purpose, a contribution of value, yet not the final offering that defines the role of the sacrificial lamb.

The established date of his death, March 28, 28AD, completes the alignment. Jesus dies in the spring, in the same season and at the same point in the agricultural and ritual calendar when lambs were selected, examined, and sacrificed for Passover. This timing is not approximate but exact.

His death falls in the same window when lambs give their lives, and it does so in the same season in which his own life began. The arc of his existence runs from one spring to another, beginning in concealed formation and ending in public offering. It is the full cycle of the lamb: conception, birth, early giving, and final sacrifice.

Once these dates are in place, the parallels no longer depend on inference. The alignment is chronological, structural, and historically fixed. Jesus' life moves in the same rhythm as the lambs that framed the agricultural, economic, and religious world of first-century Judea. He begins in the hidden spring, appears at the darkest turning of the year, gives of himself during the first season of growth, and completes his purpose at the same moment lambs were offered. The pattern is direct, consistent, and embedded in the timeline itself.

These established dates do more than organize the events of his life—they reveal how his existence unfolds according to the natural and sacrificial cycles that shaped the world into which he was born. The life of Jesus follows the life-cycle of the lamb point for point, forming a unified sequence that reflects both the structure of creation and the practices of his culture. Once the dates are known, the parallels become unavoidable and unmistakable. They clarify not only the timing of his life, but its design.

The Story of Our Savior King

Jesus was an extraordinary individual. He was a teacher, healer, craftsman, and scientist, philosopher, mystic & humanitarian. He was not a Christian but a Nazarite, among the Nazarenes of Nazareth. He was murdered by the ruling powers of his time—predatory profiteers, Pharisees, Sadducees, & the Roman authorities. Why? Because He discovered & exposed the way Rome manipulated & enslaved the world which also had everything to do with the origin & mechanism of sin itself.

When Rome conquered a land, it seized control of that lands most vital resources—especially fresh water & fertile land. These resources were used primarily for cultivating grapes to produce wine, Rome's most profitable trade commodity. But the wine they traded was deadly. The Romans placed it in lead tainted vessels with high levels of lead, a toxic substance. Rome used this wine as both a weapon & a tool of manipulation. Through trade & diplomacy, they encouraged other nations to accept their wine, knowing it would weaken their populations. The lead poisoned the mind & body, leaving people physically & mentally impaired & afflicted.

Once poisoned, these nations were unable to resist Rome's military conquests. Rome further ensured its dominance by spreading propaganda. In hot, dry regions, they claimed the water was diseased, contaminating wells & streams with corpses to support their lies. People, desperate for safe drinking water, turned to wine. This ensured their continued poisoning & Rome's control over their lands.

Jesus discovered this sinister plot & sought to liberate the people. He taught them the truth about the origin & mechanism of sin & how it occurs through the infiltration polluting & sickening of the body which then alters & afflicts the mind leading to the enactments or reenactments of trespasses (sin) which overtime accumulates becoming the great weight of our burdens of heavy laden which corrupts & can break of the spirit.

Jesus therefore taught them all stages of the Baptism & the importance of purifying ones self from the inside out. & he taught them how to purify water, offering them freedom from Rome’s poisonous grip. His act of turning water into wine, as recorded in scripture, was not about creating fermented drink but about purifying water & pointing out & exposing the deceit.

As a Nazarite, Jesus was strictly forbidden from consuming or creating fermented substances & would never have created or condoned their consumption because this was the oath of the Nazarite which is also why Jesus is portrayed as having long hair & a beard. But this act of defiance threatened Rome's power as well as the authority of the Pharisees & Sadducees which had been put into place. By exposing their tactics & teaching people to turn the wine into water or in other words purify water Jesus taught the masses how to heal themselves & by such action, Jesus jeopardized the empire's control, wealth, & military campaigns.

Rome could not allow Him to continue. Jesus knew the danger He faced. He also knew the lengths to which Rome would go to eliminate Him. They would not hesitate to slaughter every man of His approximate age in their pursuit, just as King Herod had ordered the massacre of infants to kill Him as a child.

And so to be clear we are not only talking about the death of the all the men his approximate age but the death and misery of all those who depended upon all of those men as well such as their elderly parents, their wives and children as well all of whom would have suffered but Jesus did not allow that to happen.

This is why Jesus gave himself up willingly to prevent a massacre that would devastate countless families & generations. His sacrifice was an act of profound love, ensuring the survival of billions yet unborn and because he exposed Rome's tactics which equated to chemical warfare against the world this ended Rome's alchemical choke hold against the world including saving lineages which consists of many of you who are now at this very moment reading these words.

Your Burden of Heavy Laden

Sins are also known as your burdens of heavy laden which slowly accumulate over time. They encompass not only your trespasses and transgressions against yourself and others but the trespasses of others against you.

These are your burdens of heavy laden that you carry inside of you that often manifest in the form of real physical pain which began as the painful, shameful, sorrowful, guilt ridden memories of your past experiences.

Once you remove the weight of your sins through 1. The purification of your body and mind so you can then you can then 2. Receive the lessons and understanding of the origins of your sins and how they came to be the weight of the burdens you have carried around inside of you then you can 3. Finally begin to understand in real world practical ways how evil as a force has worked and plotted against you in real not supernatural but rather world unnatural ways and 4. How to break the chain of sorrow so you can then understand 5. Why and how forgiveness is vital to receive the salvation through restoration and redemption including the forgiveness of yourself as well as your forgiveness against those who had trespassed and sinned against you.

Exposing Evil's Sabotaging Tactics

Evil's objective is to destroy your connection with God, destroy you and ultimately destroy all of creation. Evil cannot create or plan. It can only devise, plot, afflict, destroy, pollute and corrupt. It knows that the key to your salvation (restoration and redemption) which encompasses the lifting off of the weight of your burdens of heavy laden depends wholly upon your ability to give true forgiveness to yourself and others.

But how can you truly give forgiveness if you think that sin is committed by those of sound mind? Furthermore, how can you receive the salvation of restoration and redemption if you are made to believe in the lie that all you have to do is confess, be dunked in some water or even repent if you never come to understand the fundamental mechanism of sin.

To break the chain we must try to understand. One must visualize an example in the form of a story. There was a child innocent and pure. And one day something terrible happened to that child that traumatized and scarred them. Over the years that child held on to the painful and sorrowful memory of the terrible thing that happened to them and as they developed and grew it affected the way they felt about themselves and others.

As time passed it affected their perception and caused them to withdraw and isolate themselves until at one point these sorrowful memories transformed into guilt, shame, resentment, hate and blame which began to manifest as real physical pain that the now youth sought ways to alleviate which drew them to self-medicate in an attempts to numb themselves from the pain.

But no matter how much they self-medicated the painful memories were always there when the affects of the self medicating wore off. In fact as time continued their bodies became adapt to the self-medications to the point that they had to take more and more and eventually other kinds of more potent things until one day they took so much that they were no longer like themselves and their conscience and ability to reason was suspended to such extents that they reenacted the same or similar trespass that had originally been imposed upon them against someone else never realizing that this was in fact why and how they themselves had been trespassed against and this is the origin of chain of the sorrows and burdens of heavy laden also known as sin. And so to be clear, the path is:

purify →understand → heal → forgive → reconnect.

The Way of The True Baptism

Jesus did not come to teach nonsensical, unattainable, supernatural things. He came to teach people real world solutions to real world problems in their real world everyday lives. He understood the psychological warfare tactics evil uses to prey upon and victimize naive, gullible people and as such he gave us real tools to help us.

The greatest among these tools is the Baptism but likely not the one most are familiar with as the True Baptism was never meant to be a shallow superficial impermanent thing which many false prophets use as an assembly line type side show to lure in more followers so they can reap from their miseries and misfortunes by stealing the fruits of their labors through tithing, pass the plate indoctrination that only fatten the wallets of these snake oil salesmen who vomit scripture from the pulpit using it as a weapon to pick-pocket countless multitudes out of the true salvation they deserve.

The game which these prosperity preaching false prophets play is that of a theater meant to enthusiastically stir their congregations into a frenzy where people are lured into mistakenly associating the euphoric feeling of fellowship with false divinely inspired soul saving sermons spat out by self serving, crumb snatching, money grubbers who have turned yet another house of prayer into a den of thieves.

The process of the True baptism was a fully water based method consisting of both an inner and outer purification. Water is used several ways to bring about the detoxifying of the body and begins with a coached water fast to begin the process of flushing as many detrimental substances from the body as possible. This fast could last form several days to several weeks depending upon the strength or weakness of the individual. During the process hot water baths and steam baths were also used as a way to help with the cleansing process and were closely monitored to ensure the safety and well being of the individual/s.

Once the individual had completed the purification process they would then be purified of body and clear enough in mind to receive the oral teaching which would take them through the explanation of from where, how and why their burdens of heavy laden/sin had originated.

Having receive the purification, the knowledge of the origin of their burdens of heavy laden/sin. They were able to forgive themselves and others and their burdens were lifted all of which would be testified at the final stage which was a sort of ceremonial graduation of the baptism where they would be brought to a body of living water (river, lake, stream or ocean) where there would be a the gathering of witnesses consisting of all those who had previously acquired the baptism themselves.

The one performing the baptism would testify as to the individual's process of baptism as would the individual themselves where in the end the person was then dunked in water and raised up as a process of a symbolic rebirth.

Jesus said, "Come to me, all you who are burdened, & heavy-laden & will give you rest." This invitation is the heart of His message. Lay down your burdens. Forgive yourself & others. & let the truth set you free.

God Who Knows No Bounds

The question of how God communicates—through scripture, symbols, history, and even the structure of language—has fascinated thinkers for millennia. At the heart of this inquiry lies a central conviction: if God is truly infinite, then nothing in space, time, culture, or linguistic evolution can confine Him. Whether one approaches this from theology, metaphysics, or philosophical reasoning, the conclusion consistently points in the same direction: a boundless Being acts with boundless freedom.

And once you grant that premise, it becomes entirely reasonable to consider that God can encode meaning anywhere He wishes —whether in Hebrew, Aramaic, Greek, Arabic, English, or a language not yet invented. He can speak through gematria in one system, symbolism in another, and patterns of providence in yet another. To an infinite mind, none of this is strenuous. It is effortless.

Human beings experience reality in slices. We know one moment at a time, one place at a time, and one language at a time. The very structure of our consciousness follows a line: before → now → after.

But the divine perspective, by definition, cannot be bound to this linear stream. If God is the creator of space and time, then He is not located inside them any more than an author is trapped inside the pages of his own book. To God, every moment is present and every place is accessible. Every mind that will ever exist, every script ever written, every alphabet ever adapted—they are all equally known to Him.

This is not just theology; it is a logical consequence of the concept of "God" itself. A Being who creates time must be outside it. A Being who generates space cannot be confined by it. A Being who originates law and pattern can rewrite or transcend them at will.

If this is true, then the idea of divine communication becomes larger than any one culture's scriptural language. Hebrew and Aramaic matter historically, yes—but they cannot be the exclusive containers of meaning for a God who predates language entirely.

Some people struggle with the idea that God could intentionally embed meaning in alphabets that developed long after the earliest scriptures. But that hesitation assumes languages evolve independently of divine knowledge. If God knows all futures—even the futures of human creativity—then He knows where linguistic structures are headed long before they exist.

From that viewpoint, no alphabet is "too late" for Him to use. Nothing is "off-limits." Nothing is out of reach.

If gematria appears in Hebrew, why could it not appear in Greek? If symbolic numerology works in Aramaic, why would God be unable to let patterns resonate in English, Russian, or Japanese? The divine mind does not need permission from the timeline of human linguistics. To God, every alphabet is available simultaneously, much like an artist choosing from a palette of colors. The limits are ours—not His.

One of the great misunderstandings about God is imagining Him thinking the way we think. We solve problems step by step. We develop languages across centuries. We compose texts letter by letter.

But a timeless Being does not “calculate” meaning or “encode” messages in the human sense. Creation itself is His canvas, and intention alone is enough to shape structure. What seems miraculous to us—patterns of meaning across cultures and eras—is simply the natural result of infinite intelligence expressing itself.

Encoding truth in multiple languages is no more difficult for God than encoding the laws of physics in the fabric of the universe. What seems astonishing to us is merely ordinary for Him.

Throughout history, there have always been individuals who stumble upon patterns, insights, or interpretations that later generations find profound. Some call these people prophets, some call them mystics, some simply call them brilliant observers. But behind all these titles lies a common thread: certain individuals seem to be poised at the right moment to uncover a piece of what has been preserved.

If God is intentional in communication, it stands to reason He can also be intentional in who receives the insight.

This does not require favoritism or elitism; it requires only that God knows who is willing to look, who is equipped to understand, and who has the desire to share what they find. In theological terms, calling coincides with capability. In philosophical terms, discovery coincides with destiny.

And once again, it requires no effort on God's part. He simply places insight at the crossroads of the right mind and the right moment.

We often think of divine truth as something fragile, something that needs protecting. But if God wants something preserved, He preserves it. This applies to texts but also to patterns, symbols, and ideas embedded in the languages themselves. Human history is full of attempts to suppress or distort religious meaning, yet the essential messages endure.

If God can generate galaxies with a word—or with no word at all—He can certainly ensure that what He encodes is not lost. Even if languages shift, even if cultures evolve, even if alphabets come and go, the underlying truth remains accessible to those He equips to see it.

In the end, the notion that God is limited to one language or one ancient culture is simply incompatible with the idea of an eternal Creator. A God who transcends space and time must also transcend linguistic and cultural boundaries. If He chooses Hebrew for one purpose and mathematics for another, or symbolism in mythology, or sequences in DNA, that is entirely within His prerogative.

He can speak through scriptures, but also through structure. Through narrative, but also through number. Through ancient alphabets, but also through modern ones. And He does so without strain, without restriction, without the faintest hint that the constraints we fear apply to Him.

The Enemies of All Life

The enemies of all life have remained the same since the very beginning of genesis. They are the descendant offspring of Cain the first beast marked and Lilith aka Lucifer and the embodiment of the union of their unholy spirit which is Satan.

They are also referred to as the tares amidst the wheat and the wolves amidst the sheep. I modern times they are identified as the psychopaths and sociopaths and predators and predatory profiteers who obsess to possess, own, enslave and control or exterminated absolutely everything and every one.

They are the monsters among us who our parents tell us do not exist to prevent our young minds from developing under the influence of fear. They are those who reap from the miseries and misfortunes which they have always devised against the children of God and they value only personal gain and sadistic control over lives, environments and the very ecosystems which support and sustain all life.

They are the beasts among us who do not have the humanistic traits and attributes of true logic, reason, empathy, sympathy, compassion, caring and love. They are however masters of manipulation and mimicry who are able to act and pretend to have a conscience even though they do not.

These beasts are not to be confused with animals as even animals have certain codes of conduct that they will not cross but the beast have no such thing.

Over time their numbers have always grown in the world and they have always managed to slither they way into positions of great wealth, power and authority simply because they are aggressive and willing to do absolutely anything to anyone to achieve it. However God's children are kind and passive and they are not willing to lie, cheat, steal, kill, injure nor harm others, life on earth or earth's environments and ecosystems for personal gain.

This is the difference between those who serve God and Good or Evil and the Devil and is the difference between those who choose mammon (the obsession of money and/or personal gain) over the love of God and life itself.

These monsters exist, hide and lurk among all races, tribes, nations, countries, cultures, communities, societies, neighborhoods, professions, institutions, agencies, religions, religious denominations, political affiliations and absolutely every walk of life.

The simplest way to recognize such monsters is by watching how they behave toward those who have nothing to offer them in return—those without status, wealth, influence, or usefulness. True hearts reveal themselves effortlessly in the presence of the vulnerable, the powerless, the forgotten, and the overlooked.

Those aligned with God and goodness instinctively protect, uplift, and honor the dignity of others, no matter how small or insignificant the world may deem them. Their compassion is not a strategy; it is simply who they are. By contrast, the corrupted spirit is exposed when faced with those who cannot be exploited.

Devoid of an inner compass, these beings treat the vulnerable with contempt, impatience, cruelty, or cold indifference. They may cloak themselves in charm, civility, or benevolent façades, but their true nature always leaks through in moments where empathy is required and gain is impossible.

This contrast becomes a kind of spiritual litmus test. When outward masks fall away, what remains is the genuine orientation of the soul—either toward love or toward dominion, toward service or toward consumption, toward life or toward its diminishment. The children of God, guided by conscience and compassion, do good even when no eye is watching and no reward follows; they heal simply because healing is needed. Those ruled by the darkness's impulse act only when benefit returns to them, and their gestures collapse the moment self-interest evaporates.

Over time, this distinction becomes unmistakable. It is not found in grand speeches, public rituals, professions of belief, or claims of righteousness, but in the quiet, unscripted interactions that reveal the true substance of a being's heart. How one treats the humble, the wounded, the voiceless, or the inconvenient becomes the clearest window into the nature of their spirit. And in this way, the world divides itself—not by tribe or title or tradition, but by the unseen current that flows through each life: one current aligned with the preservation and flourishing of life, and the other bent toward its evil, domination, decay and destruction.

Stand Firm Together & Fight Against Evil!

Our bodies are our temples. The true Church is not a building; it is not an institution and not a denomination. The True Church encompasses the multitudes of Christians that exists throughout the world and they are the Church itself and the embodiment of Christendom itself.

As Christians we have been taught wrongly by false interpretations of the scriptures and their meanings which have over the centuries allowed evil individuals to victimize and prey upon the weak, meek, vulnerable and naive upon whom the predators and predatory profiteers have committed awful, unimaginable atrocities, inhumanities and crimes against humanity.

Here are three examples of Ephesians 6:12 in three different bibles showing how the words of the scriptures were altered to hide the truth in order to allow a monarchy to manipulate, prey upon and take advantage of the people:

- Ethiopian Bible 300-600ad:

"For our struggle is not against flesh and blood, but against rulers, against authorities, against the powers of this world's darkness, against the evil spirits that dwell in the heavenly places."

- Geneva Bible 1560:

"For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, and against the worldly governors, the princes of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness, which are in the high places."

- King James Bible 1611ad:

"For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places."

Jesus shows that being kind and being "nice" are not the same. He was never merely pleasant or conciliatory to avoid discomfort; He confronted hypocrisy, injustice, and evil directly, rebuking religious leaders, overturning exploiters in the temple, and correcting even His closest disciples when they opposed God's will.

Yet His firmness was always rooted in love and care: He healed the sick, forgave sinners, fed the hungry, and protected the vulnerable. In this way, He demonstrated that true kindness is active, courageous, and principled—it seeks the good of others, defends the innocent, and resists evil without malice or cruelty.

Christians are called to follow this model, standing vigilant against the enemy, donning the full armor of God, and resisting spiritual and moral attacks while defending the defenseless. Like Jesus, they must act firmly and decisively, speaking truth boldly and protecting others, but always motivated by love rather than anger or a desire for revenge.

Being kind means standing strong, resisting injustice, and safeguarding the weak; being merely nice would allow harm to persist. In every action, the measure of strength is guided by mercy, courage, and faith, reflecting the way Jesus Himself lived and taught.

Christians are not called to look away when evil is committed; they are commanded to confront it with courage, righteousness, and unity.

Scripture consistently teaches that God's people must defend the innocent, stand against oppression, and refuse to allow injustice to prevail unchecked. Jesus Himself was not passive in the face of wrongdoing—He opposed corruption, confronted abusers of power, and protected the vulnerable with fierce compassion.

His followers are expected to do the same: to gather together, to stand firm, to speak boldly, and to resist every form of tyranny that threatens the weak or violates God's justice. While Christians pursue peace and mercy first, they are not meant to be silent spectators when the defenseless are harmed or when evil advances against their communities.

Their battle is rooted in spiritual conviction, moral courage, and collective resolve—warring against darkness, resisting oppression, and defending what is good. In this way, Christians live out a faith that is not passive or timid, but steadfast, protective, and committed to justice in the face of any threat.

There is a crucial difference between defensive war and offensive war, and Christians throughout history have recognized it. Defensive war is undertaken when a people rise to protect their homeland, their families, and their communities from an invading force that threatens their lives, liberty, and safety.

It is fundamentally reactive, born out of necessity, not ambition. Its purpose is preservation—of life, of home, of the vulnerable, of the right to live in peace. Defensive war is the tragic last resort of a people who refuse to allow tyranny or violence to destroy what God has entrusted to them.

Offensive war, on the other hand, is initiated not for protection but for exploitation—when a nation is sent to seize land, wealth, or resources that do not belong to them, often at the urging of predatory profiteers who prize gain over human dignity. Such wars are rooted in greed, expansionism, and domination rather than justice. Offensive war disregards the sacred value of human life and violates the principles of righteousness, mercy, and neighbor-love that Christianity upholds.

While defensive war can be understood as a form of protection and stewardship, offensive war is driven by avarice and aggression, exploiting both soldiers and civilians for the benefit of a few.

In short, defensive war protects, while offensive war consumes. One seeks to safeguard life; the other sacrifices it for profit. One aligns with the biblical call to defend the innocent and resist oppression; the other stands in direct opposition to the justice and compassion God commands.

It is true that we are expected to be patient and tolerant of others especially those who are challenged mentally. However, this does not include being tolerant of corrupt, evil and harmful acts, actions, inactions and deeds.

Christian are not nice and we are not supposed to be nice but we are supposed to be kind, fair and just and we are to live and let live until others foolishly begin to take our kindness for a weakness and being to devise and carry out their evil plots and deeds against us and the world.

As Christians it is your God given right to simply exist in the world. It is your God given right to clean, safe and healthy food, water, shelter, warmth and clothing. It is your God given right to exist without the fear or actions of harm, injury or theft to yourself, your family, your loved ones or your property. There is not law/s of man/men which shall ever supersede this law and you are forbidden by God to allow the same to be suffered upon another Christian. The following are passages which give us a clear and precise message which every Christian should remember:

1 Peter 5:8–9 "Be clear-minded and alert, because your enemy, the devil, prowls around like a roaring lion, looking for someone to devour. Resist him, standing firm in your faith."

Ephesians 6:10 "Finally, my brethren, be strong in the Lord, and in the power of his might."

James 4:7 "Submit yourselves therefore to God. Resist the devil, and he will flee from you."

Ephesians 6:11, 14, 17 "Put on the whole amour of God, that ye may be able to stand against the assaults of the devil. Stand therefore, having your loins girt about with truth, and having on the breastplate of righteousness. And take the helmet of salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the word of God."

Nehemiah 4:14 "Be not afraid of them: remember the Lord, which is great and terrible, and fight for your brethren, your sons, your daughters, your wives, and your houses."

Joel 3:9–10 "Proclaim this among the nations: 'Prepare for war! Wake up the mighty warriors; let all soldiers assemble and advance.' Turn your plowshares into swords and your sickles into spears; let even the weak say, 'I am strong."

Proverbs 31:8–9 "Open thy mouth for the dumb, for the cause of all that are left desolate. Open thy mouth, judge righteously, and defend the poor and needy."

Isaiah 1:17 "Learn to do good; seek justice, help the oppressed; judge fairly for the fatherless and defend the widow."

Psalm 82:3–4 "Defend the poor and fatherless: do justice to the afflicted and needy:

deliver the weak and needy, and save them from the hand of the wicked."

God Is Good

God is good, pure, righteous, true and loyal. God does not do harm nor cause harm to be done. In fact long ago in the very beginning God placed a self-imposed restriction upon himself that would prevent God from imposing upon the freewill of humanity. Never the less there are those throughout history who have blamed God for the bad things which have occurred in their lives either to themselves or their loved ones.

The reality is that most every thing bad that has or will ever happen or occur is due to the Evil of Satan or the descendant offspring of Cain and Lucifer (Lilith). They are the ones who have caused it all from wars and conquests to corrupt laws, to diseases, poverty, taxations, additions, untimely deaths, mental and physical illnesses they are literally behind every woe that humanity has ever experienced in some way shape or form from the smallest to the largest event that has ever touched anyone anywhere ever!

God has tried since the very beginning and to this very day continues to try to warn us through others but most people simply pay no attention not realizing that it is God who is using people to get the same messages to you over and over and over again. But what these messages you ask?

They are common knowledge and common sense messages which I present to you as follows:

1. Stop building your homes or living on or near the shores of oceans and seas because tsunamis, typhoons and hurricanes will happen.
2. Stop building your homes or living on or next to the banks of rivers, lakes or creeks because floods will happen.

3. Stop building your homes or living beneath volcanoes because eruptions will happen.
4. Stop building your homes or living beneath the paths of dams because those dams will one day fail.
5. Stop building your homes or living near avalanche, rock, mud and landslide prone areas because they will happen.
6. Stop building your homes on top of or living near tornado-prone areas because they will happen.
7. Stop building your homes or living near fault lines or earthquake prone areas because they will happen.
8. Stop building your homes or living in flood prone areas because floods will happen.
9. Stop living in forests without multiple escape routes because forest fires will happen.

10. Stop ignoring flood warnings or rising rivers. Water moves fast.
11. Stop ignoring extreme cold. Frostbite and hypothermia happen faster than expected.
12. Stop leaving pets outside in extreme weather without shelter. They cannot survive like humans.
13. Stop ignoring local evacuation orders. Delays are fatal.
14. Stop ignoring earthquake preparedness. Plan, secure, and protect.
15. Stop wasting water. Droughts are coming.
16. Stop underestimating heat waves. They are deadly.
17. Stop underestimating heat. Heatstroke is real.
18. Stop blocking natural waterways or drainage. Water always finds a path.
19. Stop clearing wetlands. They protect you from floods.

20. Stop doing drugs, smoking tobacco and cannabis.
21. Stop consuming seed oils, alcohol, electronic cigarettes because it will destroy your body.
22. Stop ignoring your heart health. Heart disease is preventable.
23. Stop ignoring high blood pressure or diabetes. They will shorten your life if untreated.
24. Stop overusing screens to the point of losing sleep. Sleep deprivation is dangerous.
25. Stop ignoring the effects toxic chemicas have on physical and mental health or their ability to cause stress, anxiety, and depression.
26. Stop ignoring your diet's effect on your gut health. Digestion is essential to life.
27. Stop using tobacco products in public spaces. Secondhand smoke kills others too.

28. Stop ignoring mold in homes. It damages lungs and immunity.
29. Stop ignoring mold and dampness in homes. Respiratory illness builds quietly.
30. Stop ignoring signs of addiction—alcohol, drugs, gambling. Life ends early if untreated.
31. Stop ignoring signs of depression or suicidal thoughts in yourself or others. Speak, act, intervene.
32. Stop destroying soil, forests, and ecosystems. Nature will respond.
33. Stop cutting down old-growth forests for convenience. Forests take centuries to grow.
34. Stop undermining soil with chemicals. Fertility declines if abused.
35. Stop over-fishing. Oceans are not endless.
36. Stop ignoring the effects of over-fishing. Economies collapse, diets fail.
37. Stop eating endangered species. Extinction is permanent.

38. Stop leaving waste in rivers or oceans. Fish die, humans follow.
39. Stop feeding animals in the wild inappropriate foods. They die or become aggressive.
40. Stop living disconnected from your community. Isolation kills during disasters.
41. Stop letting greed override caution in business or finance. Recklessness ruins lives.
42. Stop ignoring the consequences of overpopulation in cities. Resources fail if abused.
43. Stop driving without wearing seat belts. Accidents happen.
44. Stop texting or being distracted while driving. Distraction kills.
45. Stop ignoring traffic laws. Speed and recklessness kill.
46. Stop thinking technology can replace common sense and caution. It cannot.

47. Stop ignoring Cyber security. Your personal life and finances are at risk.
48. Stop overusing screens to the point of losing sleep. Sleep deprivation is dangerous.
49. Stop building poorly on weak foundations. Structure fails without care.
50. Stop using outdated or faulty electrical systems. Sparks kill.
51. Stop leaving homes without fire alarms. Detection saves lives.
52. Stop leaving homes without carbon monoxide detectors. Silent killers exist.
53. Stop leaving children or pets in cars, even for a few minutes. Heat or cold kills.
54. Stop ignoring wildlife warnings. Animals avoid danger—listen to their signals.
55. Stop littering. Small acts create massive consequences.
56. Stop ignoring air pollution and water contamination. They will make you sick.

57. Stop allowing tyrants, predators and false leader traitors to devise laws or executive orders that impose upon the freedoms of people and their right to simply exist.
58. Stop allowing social medias to make you anti social in real daily life and relearn how to communicate in person.
59. Stop allowing evil individuals to victimize, assault and murder innocent individuals.
60. Stop overeating and eating the wrong things and avoid processed sugars and things that contain processed sugars as an ingredient.
61. Stop remaining stagnant, exercise regularly to have and maintain better health.
62. Stop disrespecting your righteous elders as they are the ones who can teach you many things because they are the ones who have suffered and lived through what you have yet to.

63. Stop repeating the same mistakes of the past.
64. Stop allowing others to injure or harm your christen brothers and sisters.
65. Stop ignoring God and pay attention to the anomalous signs and symptoms he places before you.
66. Stop ignoring and failing to appreciate the simple things in life.
67. Stop being mean, unkind, rude and careless towards one another.
68. Stop ignoring the needs of those less fortunate than you.
69. Stop allowing evil to use psychological warfare tactics such as misinformation, disinformation, media manipulation and fear tactics as a means to divide and conquer you.
70. Stop supporting the false prophets prosperity preachers who steal the money of the vulnerable, gullible and naive.

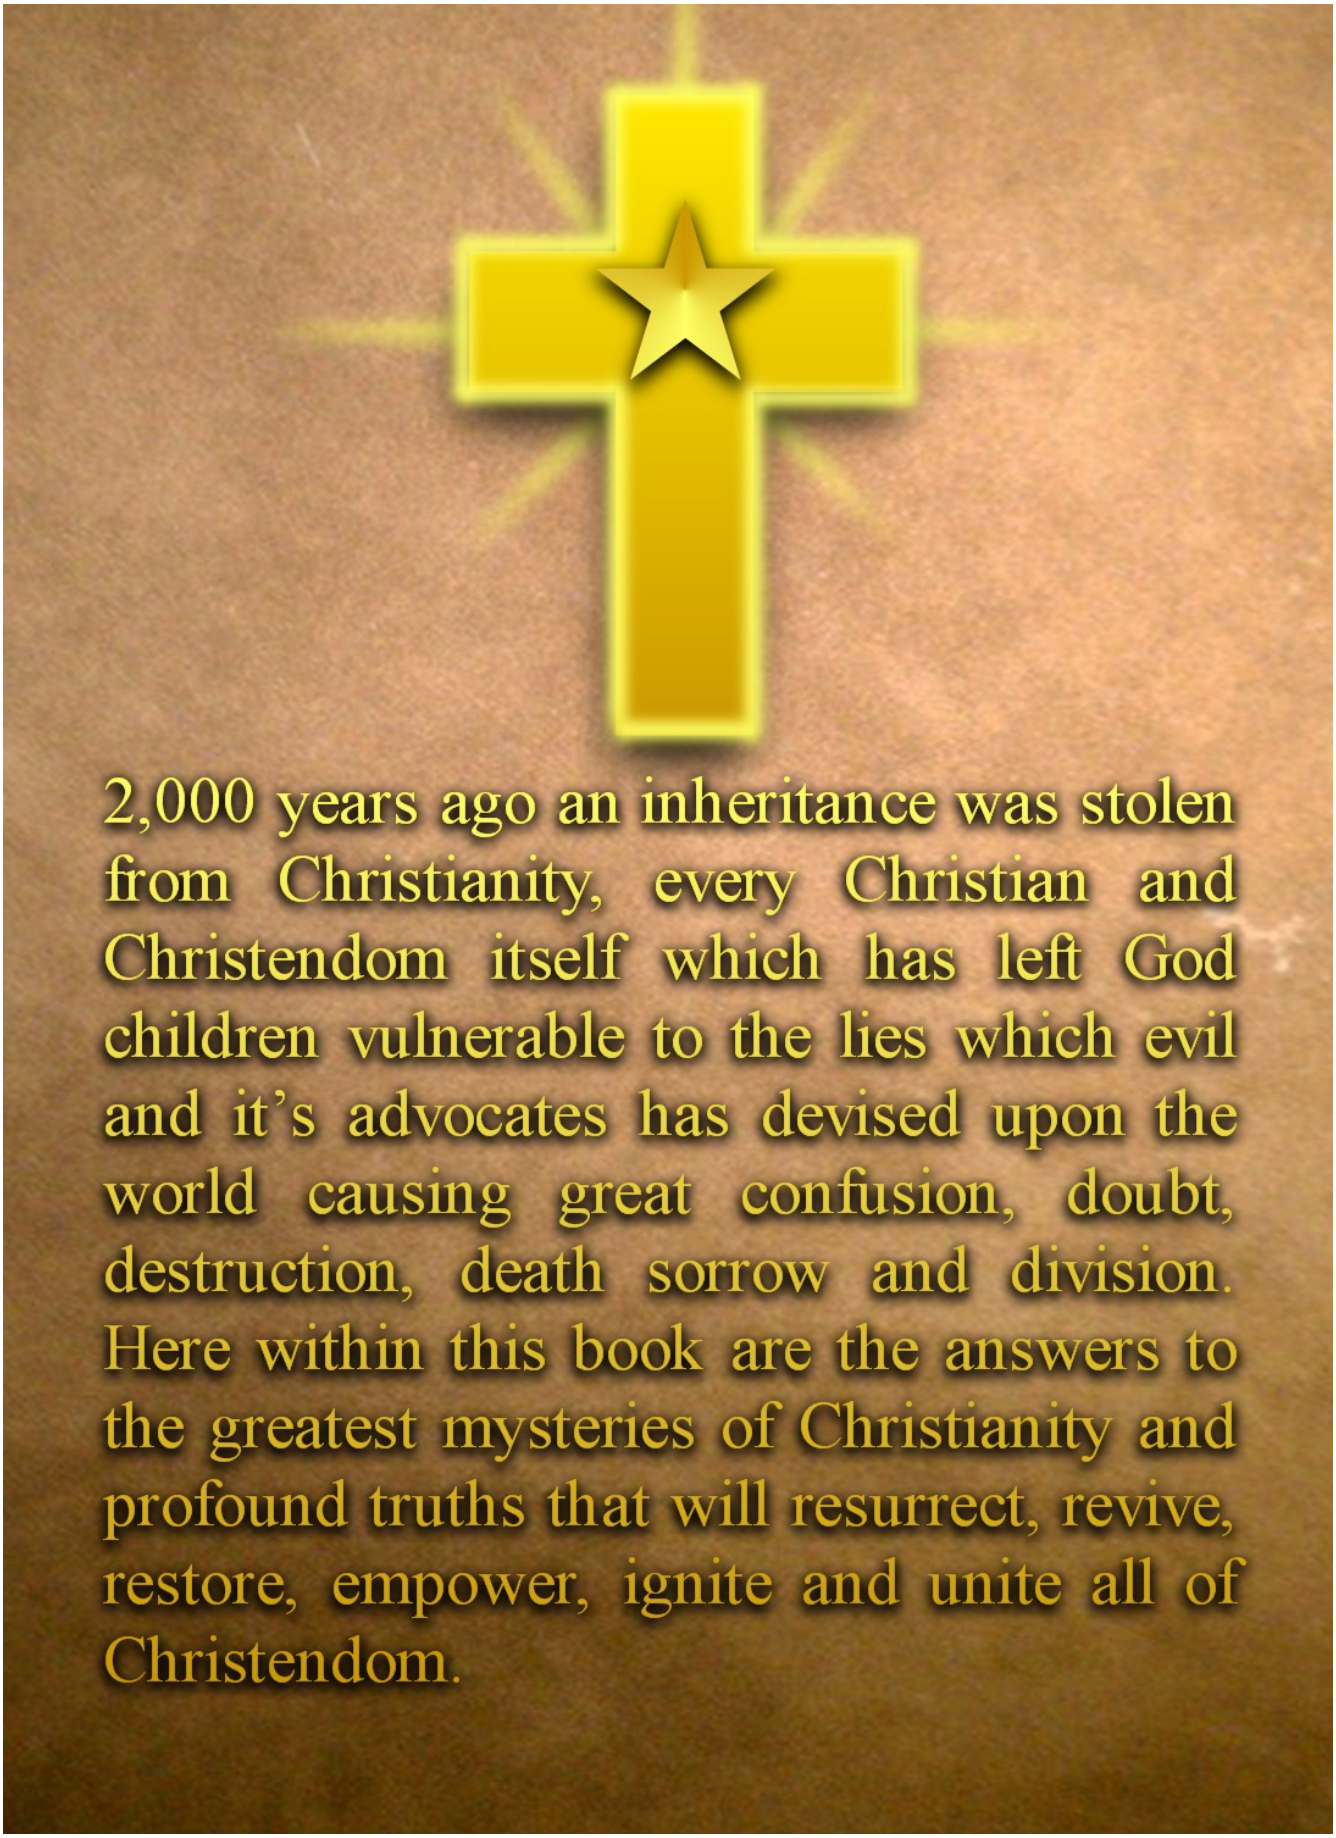
71. Stop spending and wasting your time and money on needless things.
72. Stop attending churches that do not defend the rights of their congregations but rather sell them out.
73. Stop following predatory profiteers or allowing them to become your leaders.

Closing Words

This book and its contents is part of my inheritance for all of you whose eyes look upon this book. May it help to restore, redeem, strengthen, empower and reunite you with your extended Christian family.

May it ignite and strengthen your faith and trust in the one true and only God who is present and always aware. May the Love within his heart fulfill peace within you lifting your burdens of heavy laden to give you rest, give you courage and make you whole.

I dedicate this book to my father Theo who I have always longed to see with my eyes. And to my mother Mary as a heavenly eternal birthday gift to her on her day of birth August 15th. And to every Christen, every practicing humanitarian and to the memory of all of our loved ones who have passed before us.



2,000 years ago an inheritance was stolen from Christianity, every Christian and Christendom itself which has left God children vulnerable to the lies which evil and it's advocates has devised upon the world causing great confusion, doubt, destruction, death sorrow and division. Here within this book are the answers to the greatest mysteries of Christianity and profound truths that will resurrect, revive, restore, empower, ignite and unite all of Christendom.
